Surrounding

Deurne is an interesting municipality consisting of several boroughs, these are Liessel, Neerkant, Vlierden and Helenaveen. The place name Deurne in the oldest mention has as meaning: "with thorns overgrown place." This description probably indicates a characteristic vegetation in late prehistory or early Middle Ages. Also, in that period there must have been farms near the later core Deurne, possibly under the current Koolhof, and in any case on the Bottel. Around 1200 the area became more inhabited and the name changed from Dorenbusch to Dorne and later in Deurne. Under the smoke of Eindhoven Deurne and surroundings have much to offer for the tourist guests including several special cultural, historical monuments, various cycling and walking areas.
